1963

In 1962 Merillat Woodworking Co. receives patent for a critical innovation, self-closing hinges, the first of many innovations pioneered by Orville Merillat.

Left: Ruth and Orville Merillat are married in 1945.

1971

On its 25th anniversary, in 1971, the company is renamed Merillat Industries, Inc.

1984

In 1985, Merillat Industries becomes the #1 cabinet maker in America.

1999

Merillat Cabinetry begins assembling cabinets a kitchen-at-a-time for efficiency and speed of delivery.

2013

Merillat Cabinetry pushes forward with new processes and new products. All with our founder's vision in mind.

Do your best and then some.

DESIGN

“

Great design translates your personality into a sketch, and ultimately, into a space that's uniquely yours. I'll help walk you through a typical process that converts a dream into a beautiful reality.

“
 Designing should be around your entire life and home. This mudroom design wasn't simply to create a great-looking entry; it was about a family who wanted organization for their most-used items. Beauty and function together in one place? Now that's great design.”

The Design process.

“ While there is a typical design process, every situation is different. On the next few pages you’ll see how a professional designer can guide a couple with different tastes to a layout they both love. ”
 – Betsy Writer

“We started with a checklist. What she wanted vs. what he wanted. We found commonalities and contrasts. And in the end, we found a beautiful solution.”

“After getting to know their wants, I put it together in a drawing. It starts with a floor plan and evolves into a 3D model they could both react to.”

Door type.

Cabinetry can be confusing. There are many terms and differences that are presented – important differences that will affect the look and life of your space. We’ve developed this simple glossary of terms to help you make decisions within this book and with your designer. – Dan Smith

Overlay. What is it and why?

Partial Overlay.

Overlay is the amount of face frame covered by the door and drawer. The reveal on partial overlay cabinets is typically 1 inch. A partial overlay creates a traditional look, and is typically less expensive.

Full Overlay.

An overlay that covers most of the face frame, giving prominence to the door and drawer design. A full overlay creates a more custom and clean look.

Center Panel. What is it and why?

Recessed Panel.

The center goes inward. Recessed panel designs create a fresh look.

Raised Panel.

The center panel is raised. It provides design dimension and interest.

Slab Panel.

A flat panel with no variance in the center. It provides a clean, modern look that dares to be simple.

Shape. What is it and why?

Square.

Panels that have right angles on all sides. Creates a look like a framed piece of artwork on every door.

Arch.

The top of the panel is curved. It provides an architectural element and design interest (wall or tall cabinets only).

Wood type.

The wood type you choose makes a difference. Each type has its own unique grain variation and can have a dramatically different look when color is applied. It's important to understand the differences and find the one that fits your style. – Dan Smith

Maple

Maple is a popular choice featuring a fine uniform grain that takes a color quite well. Maple is versatile and available in nearly every color combination. A very consistent wood type.

Cherry

Cherry is moderately hard and heavy, and has a fine-to-medium uniform grain. Cherry is commonly thought of as a deep color, but is quite different depending upon your choice of stain. Expect variations.

Oak

Oak is a heavy, hard wood, and has a medium-fine, noticeable grain. It gives you dramatic lines that play quite differently off of each color.

Hickory

Hickory is a very heavy, hard wood, and has a grain with quite a bit of variance. This creates a design element in and of itself, taking on colors in unique ways. No two doors will look alike.

Thermofoil

Thermofoil is a solid colored vinyl that is applied to smooth, engineered wood or Medium Density Fiberboard (MDF). Easy to clean and built to last, Thermofoil cabinetry gives you a uniform appearance.

Veneer

A veneer is a thin piece of solid wood which is attached with glue to a supporting board. Veneered components are more uniform in finish and grain, and commonly used as the material for the center panel of a door.

Colors: what to look for.

“ Our colors have been hand selected to represent the right range of tastes and looks, creating choices that are both timeless and trend forward. – Mary Jo Mosiniak ”

“Want to add elegance and depth? Try a glaze. A glaze is a hand-wiped technique that adds richness after the color is applied. Door styles that have more detail are excellent candidates for glazes, because the glaze binds to details and brings them out.”
